This feature uses Bluetooth technology to establish connectivity. Tethering Bluetooth is beneficial for its simplicity and its ability to act as a backup point for at least two iOS devices. The disadvantages revolve around bandwidth and cost. Bandwidth usually works between 1 to 4 megabits per second (Mbps), depending on the cellular network. This pales in comparison with the 30 Mbps you use with a Wi-Fi connection. In addition, most cellular carriers consider features of tethering as a separate plan. Despite the disadvantages, Tethering Bluetooth remains a good option for those who need access ready during the trip. Connect the personal hotspot feature on the iPhone. Select "Settings", tap "General" and choose "Network". Touch "Personal Hotspot" or "Tethering Internet" for iPhone 3G and slide the switch to "On." Tap "Enable Wi-Fi" if the dialog box appears and if you want to activate Tethering on the Wi-Fi connections. Return to the General screen. Verify that the Bluetooth settings have been enabled. Slide the switch under Bluetooth to "ON" if it is disabled. Exit the Application Settings on the iPhone. Verify that the Bluetooth settings have been enabled on the iPad. Select "Settings". Tap the "General" icon on the left side of the screen and tap "Bluetooth" as it appears on the right side. Slide the switch to "On". Allow the iPad to scan the iPhone-enabled Bluetooth. This can take more than one attempt. Tap the iPhone entry under the list of devices when it appears to connect. Verify that the six-digit PIN on the iPad and iPhone is the same and then tap "pair" to start the connection. The devices are connected when a two-channel icon appears next to the status bar in the upper left corner of the device screen. This can be useful when visiting friends in different states or even different countries and can drastically reduce the cost of your account. Regardless of the reason to tie two iPhones, you must first use a plan that allows you to use one of your iPhones as a personal hot spot. Tap the "Settings" application on the iPhone you want to use to create a personal hot spot. Select the "Personal Hotspot" option. Call your service provider to set up your personal hot spot if you do not see the option, an option to "set the personal hotspot" or a similar warning. Set the "Personal Hotspot" switch for the "On" position. Take note of the name for the network and the Wi-Fi password. Tap the "Settings" application on your second iPhone. Select the "Wi-Fi" option. Choose the hot spot of the section "Choose a network". Enter the password for the personal hot spot and select "Join". Although the releases of updated and new models typically come at certain times of the year, the contained coronavirus pandemic ended up pushing back the schedules a bit. But now that the delayed releases are back in the air, here are some of the latest smartphones to watch for.
