Photo Courtesy: Tech Daily / UnsPread Slowly but surely, Venmo and other payment apps are becoming the preferred method for sending and accepting payments for purchases, gifts and donations. These days, in cash - and even credit cards - can turn out uncomfortable, especially if you are dividing a dinner tab with friends or the cable account with roommates. Under these circumstances, it may be easier to open an app to send and receive money with just the simple push of a button. Typically, payment apps are connected to your bank account â€"usually a current account â€" but also Venmo allows Users rely on a credit card, provided they are willing to pay a supplement. While mechanisms are simple, it is still important to understand the platform, so transfer funds to friends, family, organizations and sellers safely. With this in mind, taking a deeper look than how Venmo works and how you can wisely use this payment app. To put it simply, Venmo is a digital wallet that allows you to pay and request money from, others. Society describes itself as "a social way to pay your friends when you have to make money and I don't want to face money." At lunch and ready to split the bill? Do you need to send your roommate's money to the end of the month for your rent and utilities? Well, Venmo allows you to transfer funds easily since your profile is connected to your bank account or debit card. As mentioned before, Venmo users can also connect this "digital wallet" to a credit card, but there is a 3% fee for transfers that pull funds from credit cards. Otherwise, sending money back and forth do not accumulate any transaction expense. courtesy photo: Bloomberg / Getty Images Many sellers, especially at big events such as festivals and concerts, accept only transfers through payment app these days. Since there are tons of customers who buy goods in these large-scale events, Venmo and other payment apps help both suppliers and customers save time. There are no swiping cards or passing the change, for example. And as an additional bonus, you don't have to worry about waiting for a receipt. Even online traders are beginning to accept mobile apps as payment method, so there is no deny that Venmo, Paypal and other are the way of the future. The easiest way to use Venmo? Download the mobile app from the iOS app store or Google Play. Alternatively, you can also sign up for Venmo.com, although the browser-based version is certainly not as robust as the app. After creating an account, you will be able to connect your banking information â€" or Use money you transfer to your Venmo account â€" payments. When you are ready to send money to friends, organizations or sellers, you will need to know their unique username, or manage. If someone is already in your contacts, you will probably manifest in your feed Venmo if they also use the app. Which, of course, makes things easier. After finding the right profile, you can send or request funds withPhoto Courtesy: Bloomberg/Getty Images However, if you're paying a company or someone who isn't in your contacts, you'll need to look for their handle. If you pay someone face-to-face, you can scan their Venmo QR code, allowing your app to automatically extract their profile. While many users simply write what the transfer is for in the text field "tacos", "November Internet", and so on "Venmo also allows you to add a note in the form of emoji and animated stickers. A word of wisdom: If you're trying to keep track of your finances more clearly, you may not want to label every transfer with a random assortment of emoji.If you have the necessary requirements, you can also use Venmo as a direct payment option for your salary. In the Venmo app, just tap on the icon "Ã©Ã©" and then click Settings Ã" Direct Deposit.Ã Click on Ã"Show Account NumberÃ" to view the information about your Venmo account, along with the routing number displayed on the screen.Ã© Ã© Photo Courtesy Ryan J. Lane/Getty Images Copy both numbers and use them to fill out your employer's direct deposit form. If you need to provide the name and address of a bank when filling out the form, Venmo provides the following information for the FDIC insured partner bank of the app:The Bancorp Bank, 6100 S Old Village Place, Sioux Falls, SD 57 108Note: The exact time of arrival of the cheque via the deposit function Direct placement may vary depending on the employer. You may require up to two payment cycles for the direct deposit feature to take effect. As payment applications are becoming so popular, it can be increasingly easier to get scammed by people trying to take advantage of unsuspecting customers. Do you want to use Venmo and other payment applications securely? We've rounded up a few tips.Ã Use trusted payment platforms: Unfortunately, not all payment applications are created equal. There are fake mobile payment applications out there that just want to get your banking information. Stick to trusted ones like Venmo, PayPal and CashApp. Also, make sure you use the latest version of the software as well as it will be the safest.Check usernames before sending funds: Speaking of scam, do not send money to unknown sources. This might sound self-explanatory, but, sometimes scammers pose as people from your contacts or as businesses. Always check the username of an individual or organization, or better yet, use the QR code method if possible.Don't send payment information over public Wi-Fi:While sending payments via Venmo or another app is convenient when you're on the go, be careful not to send payments over a public network. All sent via public Wi-Fi are accessible to anyone who has access, including those who can hack your device. It would be easy for a hacker to get payment information if you make mobile purchases through a public network. Actually it's safer to use your phone companyNetwork If you are away from your private internet connection at home. Connect a credit card to your account, if possible: While most users connect their venus to a bank account or debit card in order to avoid taxes, you might want to use a credit card instead. If the money is taken from the debit card or the bank account from a scammer, there may be inaccurate passivit  as the withdrawal costs. Most credit cards have better protection against fraud to prevent the cardholder from dealing with unauthorized charges. The card holder can also present a complaint to challenge the prosecution, which will probably be accepted. However, be sure to research which fees can be associated with cash advances made using your credit card, as many of these payment applications are processed as cash advances. Photo of courtesy: D3SIGN / Getty Images If by chance you have problems with VENMO in particular, the customer service team is willing to help. You can send a message via the app contact module or reach a representative directly through the app (Monday until Friday, 7:00 am-1. 00 east; Saturday to Sunday, 9: 00-11 : 00 EST PM). You can also call the help number VENMO A (855) 812-4430 Monday to Friday 10: 00-19: 00 00. Your iPhone allows you to copy data to your clipboard and paste it into other applications. However, an app can read (    Paste   ) from your notes in the background. A functionality added in iOS 14 and iPados 14 warns you when an app reads your notes. What is the iPhone clipboard? The clipboard is the temporary position in which copied data, texts, images or other are stored, when     copy   . For example, if you select a text on this web page and touch     Copy   , the selected text will be copied to the clipboard. If you switch to another app and then     Paste    the copy copied, you will see a message that the app you are using         Paste    from Safari   . When your iPhone or iPad says an application glued by another app, this means that it has glued the content of the clipboard. You can't read anything from the other app, just what has been copied to the clipboard. Apps can glue without your permission. This message has been added: the apps can      ncolla    from the clipboard     "in other words, access the content of the clipboard    " without actually touching a Button       Paste    and give explicit permit. Note that applications can only paste when you are actively using, in other words, when they are on the screen. For example, let's say you copy a text to Safari and go to the Facebook app. While you are using the facebook app, you can read the text you copied from Safari. If you switch to the Twitter app and opens twitter on the Facebook app can't monitor the clipboard because you don't use it. Before iOS 14 and iPadOS 14, there was no way to tell when an app was pasting in the background. With this message, you'll now see a notification that tells you when an app is reading your notes. Why? Why? If you're copying private data in your notes, you probably don't know that the apps you're oando can read them. For example, if you copy a password or a credit card number and go to a social media app, this app may read the contents of your notes and upload your sensitive data to their server. It doesn't have to be that bad. Some advertising networks used in the apps could simply monitor your notes to see what you're pasting and using such information to target ads to you, for example. the message tells you when the apps are pasting so you can make an informed decision on what to do. If you want to stop oating that app, or if you need the app, but don't trust it, you might be very careful not to have sensitive data in the notes when you want the app. Be concerned about applications that mysteriously paste the data into the background, so many applications that automatically paste the data developers are updated to remove the automatic files. tiktok claimed that he never stored the data and released an update to stop reading the notes. Can you stop the applications to paste? If you are omitting an app that continues to paste without apparent reason, you may want to revoke its bonding authorization. Unfortunately, starting from ios 14 and ipados 14, there is no way to stop an app to paste, you will not find any option in > privacy settings. if you want an application to stop pasting, all you can do is uninstall or stop darding the incriminated application. Can you hide the paste banner? you might want to get rid of the banner message that appears when you pass something, after all, it opens when you tap the option "Paste" yourself. However, there is no way to disable the paste notification and prevent its emergence, not at the time of the release of ios 14 and ipados 14, in any case, when an app pastes the data for any reason, you will see the message. a good news: ios 14 and ipados 14 offer a new feature for apps that can reduce unwanted pasta. We say that an app wants to automatically paste web addresses into the notes, but it doesn't matter to other data. Now, the app developer can update the app so that he asks the system "Is there a web address in the notes? >If there is no, the app does nothing and no message appears. if there is, the app can paste the URL and you will see a paste notification. notification.
