The Xiaomi Redmi Note 9 Pro Max is the upper part of the Redmi series Note 9, but it was one of the lens in the entire interval when it comes to updates from the beginning. The device is almost identical to the note Redmi 9 Pro, but while the second was one of the first devices of the series to be managed with Android 11, the note Redmi 9 Pro Max was one of the last. And the time delay between updates for both devices was not exactly negligible. The Redmi Note 9 Pro has a taste of Android 11 for the first time in November 20, 2020, which is far from the release date of the Redmi Note 9 Pro Max for Android 11 in June 2021. A reason why it was not Given a reason for point delays, but it is probably due to Android 11 customization problems. The same problem has affected some other models in the past, including the Redmi series Note 8. However, you can see that update problems for Redmi Note 9 Pro Max users do not end there. Of course, the device has finally obtained the long-awaited Android 11 update, but it is still based on a extremely defective MIUI 12. In fact, it does because most of the little devices and Xiaomi in question are already running MIUI 12.5. The cheapest Redmi Note 9 has also obtained. Damn, a global rollout of Update Miui 12.5 Enhanced Edition was also announced. So it's not an exaggeration to say that Redmi Note 9 Pro Max Users always fall from the road when it comes to updates. But what could be the reason for this? A community moderator finally paid me the light on darkness. Source eliminates the main reason for this is that the Redmi Note 9 Pro Max is an exclusive device of India. This translates into a lower number of units that fluctuate around, because of which developers do not have priorities for updates. This would not have been the case if the device had a Chinese variant. Take, for example, the note redmi 9, which is sold in China as redmi 10x 4g and is therefore always one of the first devices in the redmi series known to have updates in your pocket. Fortunately, the lack of a Chinese variant does not mean less updates and the Redmi Note 9 Pro Max has always been suitable for MIUI 12.5 and more, just like any other device in its price range. However, we will look for the Redmi Note 9 Update Pro Max MIUI 12.5 and we will update our special MIUI 12.5 update tracker when it is live, then stay tuned.
